NYE'S

MRS. GEDDES IS NOT BEING HOUNDED

In response to an article appearing in a Salt Lake paper this morning to the effect that Mrs. Margaret Geddes, who, it is said, claims her child is heir to the estate of the late David Eccles, and says she is being hounded by detectives sent out presumably by the Eccles family to get information respecting the relationship of her child to Mr. Eccles, Royal Eccles, son of David Eccles and one of the attorneys for the estate, stated this morning that the report is absolutely untrue and without any foundation in fact.

"We have nothing but absolute denial to make in the matter," he said, "as we know it is untrue and shameful. It is a blackmailing scheme that people should not stoop to. People who speak falsely of a man whose mouth is closed in death are like a flock of vultures seeking the unclean things of the earth. If this woman files a suit against the estate, there will be some very surprising disclosures. Neither she nor her child are known in the estate nor will they be considered. The estate has no detectives visiting Mrs. Geddes and it is quite certain that the idle prattle comes from a wagging tongue that cannot be kept still."

Due to the absence in the east of David C. Eccles, administrator of the estate of David Eccles, the attorneys today will ask for an extension of time in which to prepare and file the inventory of the estate. Mr. Eccles will not return home for a number of days.

CELEBRATION IS ATTENDED BY MANY

Attended by hundreds of people from all parts of Weber county and outside points, the fifth annual May-day celebration for customers and friends was held today by the Burton Implement company at the spacious quarters, 2312 Washington avenue.

Many of the guests had driven for long distances through the storm to attend the event, but they were soon warmed by the hospitality that radiated within the building. Steaming hot coffee and biscuits that melted into deliciousness were served to all at a long counter presided over by competent caterers.

The building was decorated for the occasion in bunting attractively draped throughout, and in every available place were seats upon which all who wished could rest.

From the balcony, an orchestra of seven pieces played popular music during the day.

While some of the employees of the company saw to the welfare of the guests, others pinned badges and placed stickpins on the visitors' clothing to impress still further upon them that the day is one of festivity. "Meet me at Burton's, May Day" was the slogan that could be seen pinned upon hundreds of people.

At one booth a young lady gave away chances on a range, a lawn swing, three phonographs, lap dusters and whips for the free drawing that took place at 3 o'clock this afternoon. In the window was a salesman who reduced the price on a Staver buggy $5 every 30 minutes, until the vehicle was sold.

Five thousand cards had been sent out two weeks ago to all the customers of the concern and with the memory of past celebrations still in mind, the recipients of the cards were pleased to attend.

MISS LUNDY TO BE PHARMACIST

Miss Lalla Lundy, formerly a drug clerk with A. R. McIntyre, has returned to Ogden after finishing her first year at the St. Louis College of Pharmacy.

FUNERAL WILL BE HELD ON SUNDAY

Funeral services for the late Sheriff E. E. Harrison will be held at the Elks' home on Grant avenue at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. J. V. Harrison, brother of the sheriff, should reach Ogden tomorrow or next day. There is no certainty as to when his sister, Mrs. S. P. Rensick of Portland will reach Ogden, as she did not state in her telegram to Mrs. Harrison last evening when she would leave Portland. She should be here in time for the funeral services Sunday.

Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Harrison has been in a nervous state requiring the attention of a physician. It is said, however, that with Mrs. Thos. E. Browning with her last night, she rested some and feels better today.

Mrs. Harrison has a heavy burden of grief to endure, this being the second death in the family within a year.

BISHOP AND HIS COUNSELLORS BANQUETED

One of the most successful social affairs given in Pleasant View in a number of years was the reunion, reception and banquet, Wednesday evening, tendered to the retiring bishopric by the members of the ward. The guests of the occasion were Charles A. Hickenlooper, bishop; Thomas Budge, first counselor; and David John, second counselor. The assembly hall where the program was held was crowded.

Henry L. Jensen acted as master of ceremonies and a pleasing program was rendered. Thomas E. McKay made a brief address followed by the retiring officers who reviewed their work in the ward.

The banquet was in the lower hall, which had been tastefully decorated in green and white, with palm leaves and apple blossoms.

On behalf of the ward, and in a neat speech, Joseph Eldwell presented Mr. Hickenlooper with a gold watch and to him a set of books. He also presented Mr. Budge and Mr. John each with a set of books. Mr. Hickenlooper leaves in a few days for Provo where he will make his future home.

Here's a good motto for married men: "Be sure you're right, then ask your wife."

EXCURSION TO THE CANYON SATURDAY

Impressed with the desirability of Ogden canyon as an excursion point, the Salt Lake Transportation club has selected the Hermitage for their excursion to be held next Saturday, May 3. Between 300 and 400 members and friends will journey to the canyon on this date.

The Oregon Short Line railroad company has offered to give free transportation to those holding membership in the club and a special train will leave Salt Lake at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The party will arrive in Ogden at 2:30 o'clock and will take cars provided by the Rapid Transit company and go direct to the Hermitage.

A program of music and dancing has been arranged at the resort and there will be an elaborate banquet in the evening. Returning, the party will leave Ogden at 10:30 at night for Salt Lake.

H. E. Godwin is the chairman in charge of the arrangements, and he has practically completed the plans for the day.

JUDGE HARRIS MUST STAY IN BED

Judge Harris is gradually growing better and is gaining in strength, but he has been advised by his physicians to remain in his room an indefinite time. It is hoped, however, that he will be able to attend to court affairs later in the month.

When Judge Harris was taken ill he had all cases in his court continue one week, feeling certain that he would be able to resume the hearing of cases in that time. It seems, however, and it is so stated by the doctors that his physical condition is worse than was anticipated and it will be some time before he will be in the court room again.

Because of his present condition it has been deemed advisable to abandon the May calendar and have a re-setting of cases at some future time. This information was given to Charles Ellisworth, court bailiff, today.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY FORMED

Salt Lake, May 1.—The Bankers' Trust company, with a capital stock of $500,000, including in its directorate men of prominence in Utah's financial world, and in its list of stockholders representatives of many millions of dollars, was launched yesterday. The articles of incorporation were filed with the county clerk yesterday afternoon.

The company will do strictly a trust and mortgage business, and no banking business is to be undertaken, at least for the present. The articles of incorporation, however, are broad in their scope and permit the company to engage in any branch of activity relating to the business of a trust company.

The officers of the Bankers' Trust company are: W. W. Armstrong, president; John Derr, David Keith and W. Z. Harrison, vice presidents; Eugene Giles, secretary and treasurer. The offices will be in the basement of the National Copper bank.

ELLIS IS TO BE SENT TO OGDEN

Pocatello, Ida., May 1.—Harry Ellis, who was arrested on the charge of issuing checks against an imaginary bank account, pleaded guilty here yesterday to the charge and was fined $300. In default of that sum he is in the county jail. He is also wanted in Utah on a similar charge and when he is released from this jail he will be turned over to Ogden officials.

THE HEN AND HER BROOD

By Mrs. M. E. Underwood.

Many persons use boxes too small for the hens to sit in comfortably, so they are crowded and the eggs forced together, the shells broken and the contents are smeared into the nesting material. To avoid this, boxes not less than 16 inches square should be used. In the bottom of the box some dry earth should be thrown over this tobacco dust should be sprinkled, and on top of the tobacco a good, deep nest of hay or straw should be made, the nesting material being rubbed and broken so it will lie smooth and soft. More tobacco dust should be sprinkled into the nesting material, but no horse manure should be used on the body of the fowl.

Before the hen is placed on the nest her body should be thoroughly dusted with Persian insect powder. This dusting should be repeated on the seventh and fourteenth days. If well done there will be little chance of insects on the hens or young chickens. Eggs broken in the nest while the hens are sitting may cause trouble. When this occurs, the broken portions of the eggs should be removed. The nesting material smeared with the contents of the eggs should be cleaned away, the nest straightened and fixed up, and all the substance smeared on the shells of other eggs should be removed gently with a knife, so as not to break them.

Use Care in Washing.

Such eggs should never be washed unless absolutely necessary. Washing the eggs interferes with their hatching qualities. When they are washed they must be washed because they will do better if washed than if left as they are. When they are washed they should be placed in water at from 98 to 100 degrees, and soaked until the dirt upon them is softened and will come away easily. Then the egg should be dried with a soft cloth and put back under the hen. If the nests are large enough for the hens to move about in without forcing the eggs together they will seldom be broken.

When hatching day arrives, the nest should be spread down a little at the outer edges to widen it and make more room for the eggs to separate from one another. This prevents the crushing of the eggs or smothering the little chicks as they break through the shell. If these little points receive attention many more chicks will be hatched from the eggs than is usually the case.

Kill the Lice.

When the chicks are hatched and removed from the nest the heads should be examined and treated as before mentioned for lice. They should be placed in a coop not less than two feet square, if larger, so much the better. The floor of the coop should be spread with hay or chaff. In the front of the coop should be strewn some dry sand and a little small chick grit. This is all the attention they will need for the first two hours, following this, a teaspoon of water should be given to each chick, strewn on top of the sand and the chicks left to help themselves. An hour later an equal amount should be given them, if all of what was first fed has been eaten up. A little at a time should be fed to them in this way for the first two days, giving them of what will eat at night. On beginning of the third day, give equal portions of bread crumbs and oats, and thereafter bread crumbs, fine oat meal, cracked wheat and some corn grits should be fed. This kind of feeding will answer until the chicks are three or four weeks old.

Water should be placed near the chicks, but not where they must run over or through it in going into the houses or to get to their feed. Place the water to one side where they can go to it when they need it. If the chicks can run outside the coop and there is grass, no other feed is necessary. If they cannot have this, supply any kind of green grass will do; but it should be cut up into small bits before it is fed to them. Numerous deaths occur from feeding long pieces of grass to little chicks that are shut up. Old fowls are killed in this way from the long pieces of grass. When helping the chicks, the little chicks nibble off pieces from one eighth to one fourth of an inch long. When fed pieces one inch or longer these clog in the crop and cause indigestion and other ailments.

THE COMING OF SPRING.

Ernest Ingersoll in the Outlook Magazine.

Spring comes forward with shy and hesitating steps, like a timid girl adventuring into an unwelcome place. April is the month of unfurling leaves and the woods take on a singular and fleeting beauty—a misty, gauzy like robe of the most delicate green and pale red, formed by starting foliage and speedily withering. The meadows are emerald, and every blade and stem is juicy and delicious to the fattening kine. In sheltered places one finds the season's first flowers—frail species, close to the ground. White, often flushed with pink or honey color, is the prevailing tint. The trailing arbutus opens its chalice of perfume beneath the drooping leaves, tufts of saxifrage and bending sprays of Dutchman's breeches gleam upon rocky ledges, and at their base stand the snowy flakes of the bloodroot.

Spring beauties, hepaticas, ugly wake robins star the woodland carpet, thousands of adder's tongues gild damp hollows, and the showy domes of the shadub glow against every bushy hillside. The humming of countless small and early insects strikes the ear, while in the flowery tops of such honey giving trees as the basswood the bees are eagerly beginning their year's toll. A few small dull colored butterflies and many little gray moths appear, the latter laying their mischievous eggs in the fruit buds of our orchards.

In the textile industry the wages from 1898 to 1911 increased 15 per cent; while in the same period the cost of necessities increased 29 per cent.

There is a growing solidarity among women wage earners in France and there is every reason to believe that the average wages paid will be materially increased during 1913.

WORLD'S MARKETS

Chicago Grain.

Chicago, May 1.—Because the great part of wheat delivered today on May contracts—1,890,000 bushels—went into strong hands, that option showed most strength. May opened 1-2 to 5-8c off at 91 1-2 to 5-8c and advanced to 92 1-4c. July started 1-8 to 3-8c off at 91 7-8c and 92 1-4c but in sympathy with May firming up to 92 3-8c.

Corn advanced. May delivery of 60,000 bushels was mainly scattered. July opened a shade to 1-8c off at 55 7-8c to 56 1-8c, but on fair buying went up to 56 1-4c to 56 3-8c.

Influential buying lifted oats. July opened unchanged to 1-8c lower at 34 7-8 to 35c and went up to 35 1-4c. May contract deliveries were 405,000 bushels, mainly scattered.

Better prices at the yards helped provisions. A net advance of 2 1-2 to 5c was scored. July openings.

Pork, $19.65.

Lard, $10.87 1-2.

Ribs, $11.02 1-2 to 11.05.

Wheat—After a further slight upturn, profit taking caused a reaction from which there was partial recovery. The close was weak for May at 91 1-2c, a net loss of 5-8c and steady for July at 91 5-8c, a net decline of 3-4c.

Corn—A small additional uplift was met by selling that again lowered prices. The close was nervous, with July 1-8c net lower at 56c.

DON'T STAY GRAY! SAGE TEA DARKENS THE HAIR BEAUTIFULLY

Restores Its Lustre, Prevents Itching; Dandruff and Falling Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. While it is a messy, tedious task it will repay those whose hair is turning gray, faded and streaked.

Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair and is the best thing known to remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody chooses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time which requires but a few moments. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair has disappeared and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. It certainly helps folks look years younger and twice as attractive, says a well-known down town druggist, A. R. McIntyre, Drugs, Agent, 2421 Wash. Ave.
